Statistical Consulting in the Pharmaceutical Industry

David Underwood

The Statwood Partnership,
Hitchin

Abstract: The talk will reflect on 20 years of consulting experience, and examples of real life situations will be given, however names and circumstances will be changed to protect the innocent!! Examples drawn from consulting as a company statistician from within a major pharmaceutical company will be contrasted to those when acting as an external consultant. The effect of the statistical review from within the UK regulatory authorities on statistical consultants will also be discussed.

David was Head of Clinical Data Management Services responsible for 30 Data Management and Statistical staff when he left SmithKline Beecham in 1994 to set up the STATWOOD Partnership with John Beresford.
